

TWAS-UNESCO Associateship Scheme: 2018 call for applications.

The TWAS-UNESCO Associateship Scheme enables competent researchers from the developing countries to visit participating centres of excellence in the South for research collaboration. An associate is appointed for three years during which s/he can visit a selected centre twice for 2-3 months each time. Almost 300 centres participate in the scheme.

Applicants must hold a PhD or equivalent degree and include an invitation letter from the host centre. Only centres listed here can be chosen as host centres. Special consideration is given to scientists from isolated institutions in developing countries. Women scientists are especially encouraged to apply. Deadline: 5 December 2018.
